

Information for Individuals Tested for COVID-19 Infection

Thank you for visiting this webpage for further information following your recent test for coronavirus (COVID-19).

Who is this site for?

This site is for members of the public who have undergone a test for COVID-19. You will have received your result via text message to the mobile phone number you provided at the time of your test. If, at any time, you or any member of your household becomes more unwell they should visit the NHS Direct Wales website or call NHS 111. If it is a medical emergency, call 999.

If you are a key worker or household member of a key worker, please access further information here.

If you have been identified as a contact of a case of COVID-19, please continue to follow the advice here.

⊕ If you have received a POSITIVE test result for COVID-19 infection:

⊕ If have had a POSITIVE test result for COVID-19 infection but have never had any symptoms:

⊖ If you have had a NEGATIVE test result for COVID-19 infection:

1. Persons identified as contacts of COVID-19

If you have been spoken to or identified as a contact of a case of COVID-19 and are within your 14 day self-isolation period, please continue to follow the advice on here.

Despite a negative test (with symptoms or without), you must continue to self-isolate until the 14 day incubation period is over.

If you subsequently become unwell after the 14 day incubation period, you should self-isolate again, and may need a further test.

2. Persons without a known contact of COVID-19

Your negative test does not conclusively rule out infection due to COVID-19, but means that it is more likely that your symptoms were due to a different infection, such as influenza or other bugs that cause coughs and colds. It is important that you do not pass on these infections either, and should continue to self-isolate until you are better.

If you subsequently become unwell again, you should self-isolate, and may need a further test.

If you have had a NEGATIVE test result but have never had any symptoms, there is no need to self-isolate. If you subsequently become unwell, you should self-isolate, and may need a further test.

⊕ If your test result for COVID-19 infection is 'unclear, void, borderline or inconclusive':
