

Science & Technology / Humanities Activities

There are two activities to try: 1. Decorating biscuits and 2. Mini beast hunt.

1. Decorating biscuits

Here are some ideas for making ladybird biscuits. Try counting the dots together at the end and comparing how many dots you have on each wing – more, fewer or the same?

Ladybird Biscuits

(More ideas later if you are short of ingredients!)

You will need:

1 pack plain biscuits

1 small, red food colouring

Icing sugar

1 small cup of water

Black ready made icing in a tube or block or something similar to make spots and lines like raisins and liquoris

Optional – edible eyes!

Talking Together

If you don't have the ingredients - some other ideas!

Use cream cheese instead of icing sugar!

Make your own unique bug with different colours and spots using smarties! Give your bug a name!

Cut circles in bread and make ladybird toast with raspberry jam!

Use chocolate tons for spots!

Do the activity with dough and buttons for spots!

Talking Together

1. Lay out your biscuits on a flat surface.

2. Mix a little water into your icing sugar until it starts to make a really thick paste.

3. Add red food colouring until the icing goes ladybird red.

4. Ice your biscuits to look like red ladybird wings.

5. Roll black icing into a thin sausage and make into a strip down the middle of each biscuit. (Or draw a line with icing or add a strip of liquorish.)

6. Roll little balls of black icing ready or get your raisins ready!

Get Snapping!

Take some pictures of your biscuits and email them over to me at: timminss@hwbcymru.net

I can share the pictures on Class Dojo. If you are not signed up to Class Dojo yet, please email me to get your link.

2. Mini beast hunt

What mini beasts can you find in your garden? Can you find out the names for the creatures you find? How many legs do they have? Are any of the mini beasts you find in your garden shown here:
