

When the doorbell rings at three in the morning, it's never good news.

Complete these:

1. When the doorbell rings at three in the morning, it's never good news, but
2. When the doorbell rings at three in the morning, it's never good news, and
3. When the doorbell rings at three in the morning, it's never good news, so
4. When the doorbell rings at three in the morning, it's never good news because
5. When the doorbell rings at three in the morning, it's never good news;

If we changed:

1. 'When' to 'if', how would the meaning of the sentence change?
2. 'Morning' to 'afternoon' how would the meaning of the sentence change? How might this affect the reader differently?
3. 'Never' to 'always' how would this change the meaning of the sentence? How might this affect the reader differently?

