Safer Places to Cross

A safe place to cross is somewhere where you are able to see in all directions. Stand away from any obstructions like road signs or junctions.

Common thing to avoid will be:

- Parked Cars
- Bends and Junctions

Moving away from parked cars and junctions is always the best option but not always possible.

Parked Cars

You won't be visible to car drivers when you cross by parked cars. You need to find a small gap. Check the cars each side of them won't be moving while you are between them. You can do this by checking for 4 signs:

- LIGHTS
- DRIVER
- EXHAUST FUMES
- ENGINE NOISE

Move slowly out to the edge of the cars to give you a clear view of traffic. Make sure to look RIGHT first as this is where cars will be coming closest. Look RIGHT, LEFT, then RIGHT again, if it is clear you cross. Looking and listening the whole time.

Junctions

If you can't avoid crossing at the junction, you need to check for cars like this:

- Start by standing somewhere they can see clearly down each of the roads at the junction.
- Looking over your right shoulder check each road in a 'circle'. Moving left, finishing with the road they started on.
- If anything is coming on ANY of the roads you should wait for the traffic to pass, and start the circle again.
