Extension

Remember, a syllable is a part of a word that can be said by itself.

Each syllable has its own vowel sound, like this:

annoy is pronounced an / noy, so it has two syllables.

attention is pronounced at / ten / tion, so it has three syllables.

Copy the words below. Copy them into lists of one-syllable, two-syllable and three-syllable words, like this:

1 syllable	2 syllable	3 syllable
add	adding = ad / ding	addition = ad / di / tion

appear attack all allow assistant assembly annual arranging attempting apparent

Does each of your syllables have a vowel sound?
